More Names Needed For Electric Lights.

Committee Instructed to Buy Fire Engine—Lively Club Meeting.

The Jeffersonton Commercial Club held an enthusiastic open meeting last Friday night. The president, R. B. Smith, was in the chair and one of the largest crowds ever seen at a meeting of the club was present. The first thing discussed was the question of electric lights for the community. Mr. H. J. Wigge, of the Louisville Lighting Company, was present and in a short talk complimented the Club members for their efficient and faithful work. Over one hundred applications have been made for electric lights, and Mr. Wigge said that he thought his company would extend its lines to Jeffersonton. It twenty more were secured. Members of the club assured him that these would be obtained within the next few days. So, the people of Jeffersonton and vicinity may feel assured of getting electricity in this community. A number of the members present inquired of Mr. Wigge as to the cost of light, and were told that the same rate would apply here as in the city—eight cents a K. W. Or in other words, two sixteen-candle power lights would cost one cent per hour. Mr. Wigge said it would cost about $11,000 to extend the service to Jeffersonton.

Will Buy Fire Engine.

The next question discussed by the Club was that of fire protection for Jeffersonton and vicinity. W. J. Semonin, chairman of the committee working on the proposition, reported that $650 had been subscribed toward the purchase of a fire engine. A representative of the American La France Fire Engine Company was present, and told of the advantages of his make of engines. He said they were approved by the Kentucky Actuarial Bureau, the act fire insurance rates in Kentucky, and that his machines were guaranteed to be perfect in workmanship and material. The price on the La France engine was $550 for the 45-gallon engine and $650 for the double tank engine, but these prices were withdrawn after the club refused to close the deal Friday night.

A representative of the Ajax Fire Engine Company was also present and presented the claims of his company. The 50-gallon engine was offered at a price of $285. The representative reported that these engines were approved by fire underwriters of other states and he was confident the Kentucky board would do the same.

A committee composed of W. J. Semonin, J. C. Bruce, Frank Fannell and Chas. D. Tyler was named to investigate the proposition and purchase the engine, or engines, best suited for the needs of the town.

Floral Parade.

A committee was named by the Club to arrange for Jeffersonton to be represented in the floral parade of the Kentucky Educational Association, which meets in Louisville, June 25-27, 1912. J. C. Bruce and J. C. Bowles were selected to arrange for a float and to secure safe horses for ladies to ride. The educational committee of the Louisville Commercial Club, of which John B. McFerran is chairman, and E. R. Sprout, vice-chairman, has offered several nice prizes for the handsomest decorated turnout, and Jeffersonton will try to win one of the prizes.

Street Fair Proposed.

In order that funds may be raised to help the town trust erect suitable street electric lamps, poles, etc., a street fair or carnival was proposed and a committee named to investigate the matter. Frank Fannell, Fred Myers, Carl A. Hummel, Harvey Stout and W. J. Semonin were named on the committee.

Better Street Car Services.

John T. Sweeney and Carl A. Hummel were named on a committee to present a petition, which had been signed by a large number of residents of the town, to the Louisville Railway Company. The petition asks for an electric car, better service at the waiting room and other things in connection with the service on the Jeffersonton interurban line. This was by far one of the most interesting meetings ever held by the club, and the members were much encouraged. Another open meeting of the club will be held tomorrow (Friday) night at Bruce Hall at 8 o'clock to complete the work in hand. Everybody is invited to be present.

FINAL CALL

For Oldest Minister Of Christian Church.

Rev. William Tharp Dies in the Ninety-Sixth Year of His Age.

In the ninety-sixth year of his age the Rev. William Tharp, the oldest minister of the Christian church in the world, and a greatly beloved man, whose life-work was published some weeks ago in The Jeffersonian, died of exhaustion at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of his son, John Tharp, at Middletown. Death practically resulted from starvation, as he had been unable to take nourishment for ten days. Until six weeks ago, when he developed a severe cold, he was a remarkably preserved man, and enjoyed good health. He retained his mental faculties to the last and was prepared for death, having long regarded death as near. It not imminent, and feeling perfect assurance as to the hereafter.

Rev. Tharp was born near New Castle, Henry county, Ky., in 1817, and began preaching at the age of twenty-three. For three score and ten years he had constantly labored for God. Fifty-five years ago he became pastor of the Christian church at Middletown, and although he resigned the pastorate many years ago and retired, he was regarded as the head of the congregation. With in the last year he delivered a sermon from the pulpit at Middletown, but his strength was not sufficient to permit him to stand during the entire length of the sermon, and he sat in a chair while preaching.

His demise removes a most interesting character. He had conducted the funeral services of all of his flock, with the exception of two members of the original congregation of the Middletown Christian church at the time he took charge. They are Mrs. Hiram Wood, eighty-five years of age, and Mrs. Allen Poulter, seventy-five years of age, both still living. Several couples whom he married celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries last fall. He has married children and grandchildren of persons whom he united in wedlock early in life.

"Brother Tharp," as he was best and affectionately known throughout the State, celebrated the ninety-fifth anniversary of his birth on April 9. Frequently he had expressed the desire to round out a hundred years, but at all times he said he was ready and willing to answer his Master's call. He loved the Bible best of all books and in his old days he spent most of his time in reading it. He knew it thoroughly and could quote most any passage named. He is survived by four sons: John and Christopher Tharp, of Middletown; Wallace Tharp, pastor of the Christian church at Alleghany, Penn.; and Wm. Tharp, Jr., pastor of the Beargrass Christian church. The funeral services were conducted at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Rev. G. G. Taylor of Louisville, a life-long friend, and Rev. B. H. Cox, brother-in-law of the aged minister, at the Middletown Christian church, this being the first service held in the church at that place, and in which he took much interest. Burial was in the Middletown cemetery.

Jeffersonton Seconds Defeated.

Seatonville baseball team defeated Jeffersonton Seconds Sunday afternoon, the score being seven to eight. Jeffersonton quit in the seventh inning. Seatonville had three men on bases, no outs, and two balls missing. Jeffersonton Seconds has a good team.

EDUCATIONAL

Convention In Louisville June 25-27.

Kentucky Association Expects Great Results—Much Interest Shown.

Preparations are well under way for the forty-first annual session of the Kentucky Educational Association, to be held in Louisville June 25, 26 and 27. The officers of the Association are: Mrs. C. Wilson Stewart, Morehead, president; T. W. Vinsen, Frankfort, secretary, and G. M. Money, Shelbyville, treasurer. It is planned to make it the most important educational meeting ever held in the South. For the first time in the history of the Association, the program is fairly filled with speakers of the national reputation. Among these are: P. P. Claxton, U. S. Commissioner of Education; Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, Dr. Charles F. Thag, president of Western Reserve University, Cleveland; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University of California, and Miss Jessie Field, superintendent of Page county schools, Iowa.

More than a score of the foremost educators of Kentucky are also on the program and it will require three sessions each day to carry through the important work before the convention. Louisville is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors and officers of the Association hope that every teacher in the State will attend this year's meeting. A pressing invitation is also given to every school trustee in the State to attend, as the approaching convention is regarded as an important step for the educational uplift of Kentucky. An exceptionally low railroad rate from every point has been made on account of the convention.

A meeting of the school trustees of the State during the Kentucky Educational Association in Louisville June 25, 26 and 27th, is expected to attract five hundred or more of these important school officers to Louisville at that time to take part in the deliberations of the session. As a noted speaker who will address them on their problems.

While encouraging reports come from Mrs. C. Wilson Stewart, of Morehead, president of the Kentucky Educational Association regarding the interest taken throughout the State in the annual convention of the organization, equally good news comes from Louisville, where this year's meeting will be held. The business men of that city have shown marked interest in the coming of the teachers and the city press has repeatedly referred to the meeting as an important movement for the betterment of Kentucky's educational conditions. Preparations are being made under the auspices of the Advertisers Club, joined by other commercial bodies, to give a floral parade in special honor of the teachers on the first afternoon of the convention. Flower-decked automobiles will be in line to the number of not less than 300, with half a dozen bands interspersed throughout the parade. Floats having educational subjects as their theme will be entered in the parade. Prizes are to be offered for the handsomest turnouts and a lively interest has been awakened in the enterprise. The Association program this year will include a number of educators of national reputation.

Officers of the Kentucky Educational Association report that the teachers of the State have been aroused as never before over the annual session of the Association which is to be held this year in Louisville. The date is close at hand, June 25, 26 and 27, and flashing touches are now being put to the elaborate program. Exceptionally low railroad rates have been made from every point in the State on account of the convention and at attendance of not less than 3,000 teachers is anticipated. A special invitation has been given to the school trustees and members of boards of education to attend and aid the educators in efforts to improve

Kentucky's school system. Numerous speakers of the national prominence are on the program. One of the pleasing features will be an exhibit from rural and city schools. This will cover everything from examples of the handiwork of the manual training students to exhibits from the boys' corn clubs. All sessions will be held in the magnificent new Christian Church, a spacious room of the edifice having been set aside exclusively for the school exhibits.

A feature of the Kentucky Educational Association will be that of exhibits from the various schools in the State, and, especially those engaged in manual training work, entirely or in part. A number of schools are making preparations to display a fine exhibit during the session.

At the meeting of the Jeffersonton Commercial Club last Friday evening a committee was named to have this community represented in the large parade of the Kentucky Educational Association June 25-27. Horses will be secured for the ladies and a handsome float will be entered from this place.

Fannell Brothers Win.

Fannell Brothers, of Jeffersonton, defeated the Werner Stars, of Louisville, last Sunday by the score of 9 to 4. T. W. was on the mound for Fannell and held the visitors safe at all times. Fannell took a batting rally in the fourth inning and drove in enough runs to win the game. For Sunday Manager Bart has on the Highland Athletics. Harper will be on the firing line for the Highlands, while Monroe will be on the mound for Fannell Brothers. Game called at 3 p. m.

New Pastor Begins Work.

Rev. Chas. R. Shepherd has accepted a call to the Jeffersonton Baptist church, and preached here Sunday morning and evening to a large and appreciative audience. He will close his church work at Irvington on the fourth Sunday in this month, and after that will fill his regular appointment here every second and fourth Sunday. We welcome Rev. and Mrs. Shepherd in our midst and are looking forward to a bright future.

Results in Serious Injuries To Mrs. Harding and Daughter —Other News.

Buechel, June 11.—Mrs. G. Harding, wife of a fruit grower near Fairmont, and her daughter, Miss "Mae" Harding, were seriously hurt Wednesday afternoon in a runaway accident on the Bardstown road, above Fern Creek. The horse, which was blind, was being driven by a negro boy and what frightened it and caused it to run away is not known. Mrs. Harding and daughter jumped, the former receiving several scalp wounds and injuries to her back, besides being rendered unconscious. The daughter sustained an injured ankle, but the little brother she held in her arms escaped without injury. The horse finally ran into a ditch, overturning the vehicle and throwing out the driver. SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—The scene at opening of the story is laid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Burrey. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintarles, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Cressshaw, a business man, a drifter known as Bladen, and Bob Yancy, a farmer, when Hannibal Wailes, a "vicious child of the old southern family," makes his appearance. Yancy tells how he adopted the boy.

CHAPTER II.—Nathaniel Perls buys the Burrey, but the Quintarles deny any knowledge of the boy. Yancy to keep Hannibal, Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintarles, appears and asks questions about the Burrey.

CHAPTER III.—Trouble at Scratch Hill. Yancy's house, when Hannibal is kidnapped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's house, overrules Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy.

CHAPTER IV.—Yancy is served with a warrant for the abduction of Hannibal. Yancy appears before Justice Blount, and is discharged with a fine of $100.

CHAPTER V.—Betty Mabrey, a friend of the Perles, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington, who threatens to whip the captain.

CHAPTER VI.—Betty sits out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. He overrules them in the mountains of Tennessee. Murrell gets Yancy drunk and takes him in a fight that followed. Hannibal escapes in a canoe.

CHAPTER VII.—Hannibal arrives at the home of Justice Blount.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Justice Blount's house. He bears of the finding of Yancy's body. Price arrested as counterfeiter.

CHAPTER IX.—Cavendish family on rift, rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail.

CHAPTER X.—Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XI.—Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the Judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again.

CHAPTER XII.—Murrell arrives in Belle Plain. He is playing for big stakes.

CHAPTER XIII.—Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft.

CHAPTER XIV.—Judge Price makes startling discovery in looking for Hannibal. Charley Norton, a young planter, kills the Judge, is mysteriously assassinated.

CHAPTER XV.—Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Carrington bids Betty good-bye. Norton is mysteriously shot.

CHAPTER XVI.—More light on Murrell's plot. He plans uprising of negroes.

CHAPTER XVII.—The Judge and Hannibal visit Belle Plain.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Betty is told why Norton was killed and leaves Belle Plain, taking Hannibal with her. The carriage is held up in the woods.

CHAPTER XIX.—Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners in a lonely cabin. Screened by the thick shadows, they passed up the path that edged the bayou; at the head of the inlet they entered a clearing, and crossing

CHAPTER XX.—Prisoners. In the face of Betty's indignant protest Slosson and the man named Dunker climbed into the carriage. "Don't you be scared, ma'am," said the tavern-keeper, who smelt strongly of whisky. "I wouldn't lift my hand ag'in no good-looking female except in kindness."

"How dare you stop my carriage?" cried Betty, with a very genuine anger which for the moment dominated all her other emotions. She struggled to her feet, but Slosson put out a heavy hand and thrust her back. "There now," he urged soothingly. "Why make a fuss? We ain't going to harm you; we wouldn't for no sum of money. Drive on, Jim—drive like hell!" This last was addressed to the man who had taken George's place on the box, where a fourth member of Slosson's band had forced the coachman down into the narrow space between the seat and dashboard, and was holding a pistol to his head while he sternly enjoined silence.

With a word to the horses Jim swung about and the carriage rolled off through the night at a breakneck pace. Betty's shining hands drew Hannibal closer to her side as she felt the surge of her terrors rise within her. Who were these men—where could they be taking her—and for what purpose? The events of the past week linked themselves in tragic recollection in her mind. What was it she had to fear? Was it Tom for whom these men were acting? Tom who would profit greatly by her disappearance or death?

They swept past the entrance at Belle Plain, past a break in the wall of the forest where the pale light of stars showed Betty the cornfield she and Hannibal had but lately crossed, and then on into pitchy darkness again. She clung to the despairing hope that they might meet some one on the road, when she could cry out and give the alarm. She held herself in readiness for this, but there was only the steady pounding of the big bays as Jim with voice and whip urged them forward. At last he abruptly checked them, and Dunker and Slosson sprang from their seats. "Get down, ma'am!" said the latter.

Letter From Horace W. Moremen.

Tells of Good Lessons That Can Be Learned from S. O. S. Signal of Titanic.

A unsinkable ship, a captain with out an accident for thirty years; safe of course. Let's take passage. We get our tickets, we board the ship, our belongings are in our room and on the night of April 14, 1912, we are around as fancy dictates and go into the barber shop of our deck, and there find some men gambling and we watch them a while and then comes a slight shock and one of them says to the other, "She's struck something," the others say "yes," but that makes no difference to us; on with the game. We then stroll to the grand saloon where we hear the music and see the dancers, and we hear the claim made, "The next dance is mine," and "Is your card full?" and we say the ship has struck something and get the reply, "The captain has had thirty years without an accident and he says the ship is unsinkable; on with the dance, let joy be unconfined. One of the accounts says the iceberg struck the ship. This is an error, the ship struck the iceberg. God put the iceberg there to bring down the ship. The iceberg being there was a warning to take another and a safer course, but Captain Smith, knowing there was a safe course, like many another men preferred a course among the icebergs. When Jesus was on the pinnacle of the temple the devil said to him, "If thou be the Son of God cast thyself down, for it is written He shall give his angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone." Jesus said unto him, "It is written again, 'Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.'" Thirty years amongst icebergs in safety, so will an unsinkable ship. I will take my course with the precious lives of 3,300 people. As we are on board and the ship has struck the iceberg and the water is pouring in, the ship begins to sink deeper into the ocean and water to come up to the boilers and engines; when it is almost too late, the captain orders the operator of the wireless to send out the signal, "S. O. S. Save, Oh Save."

Scarcely were the necessary directions where the ship could be found, till the fires went out in the boilers, the engines stopped, the dynamo ceased to revolve, no more could a message be sent, and still we believed with the captain, that the ship was unsinkable. A little after 12:20 a. m., the water had risen in the third cabin to the depth of a foot and those passengers went to the top deck and then the next cabin began to fill and all the passengers and crew went to the upper deck. That fatal belief, an unsinkable ship, kept Captain Smith and many of his passengers from tearing the doors from the upper deck and launching them, and as the water rose from deck to deck, all the doors of that cabin could have been taken along and an effort made to use every thing that would help a person to float on the icy water. No, the ship was unsinkable and we will put the women and children in the boats and our chance will be better right on the ship. Why was the cry women and children first? Because the ship of Christ is in all the corners, and helps the helpless wherever ever found, and where His spirit does not rule, nor as ever, selfishness rules and might is right. Not until the water comes to the upper deck and the ship began to disappear, bow first and the band was playing the last stanzas of Autumn the last four lines of which are:

"Hold me up in mighty waters,
Keep my eyes on things above,
Riches, riches, divine atonement,
Peace and everlasting love."

Which, instead of "Nearer My God to Thee," was the last hymn played by the band as the icy waters closed round them, and though we are not worthy of the least of all the mercies of God, His ear was open and though his children have often spent all their substance and are in a far country, yet when they come to themselves He sees them afar off and kisses them and puts shoes on their feet and the best robe on them and takes them to his arms. Ah, he says, this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost and is found and it needed no dynamo to carry those cries that pierced the night air of April 15th. God's ear is ever open, and He is always the life savor, though men of ten wait till the icy waters are closing over them to send the signal, S. O. S.

The oceans of the earth are charted. There was a safe course for the Titanic, but her captain put her among the icebergs. Jesus said, "Ye, rather blessed are they that hear the word of God and keep it." There are two courses of action in this life to do as God pleases, to hear His word and keep it, or to do as we please. If God put the iceberg there and the Titanic hit it and sank, did not God sink the Titanic? God did not put the Titanic there. Presumption and courtousness guided it. Christ answered those who told him of the slaughtered Galileans, "Suppose ye, these Galileans, were sinners above all the Galileans because they suffered such things. I tell you nay, but except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish." Of those on whom the tower of Siloam fell, he says the same, "Nay, but except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish." It is appointed to man once to die and then cometh the judgment, and though we are on the land, yet our course can be among icebergs as individuals and nations as dangerous to us as those icebergs to the Titanic; but if we follow the chart given to us by God, our course will not be where icebergs are.

There were ten men on the Titanic who had $200,000.00 each, or 20 men who had every one $10,000.00 in all; $200,000.00 the ten or twenty had, but all of it could not take them across the Atlantic in safety. How futile is money; how valuable is human life. Jesus says, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his life." The first thing God created was light. He said, "Let there be light and there was light." When Adam and Eve were warned of the icebergs and were tempted and fell and as their ship was sinking, God gave the white banner of love into the hands of Christ, with its motto of purity, perfection and peace, and ever since that banner has been aloft and the course of safety has been charted so plainly, the wayfarer men, though fools, shall not see therein. Christ is light, walk in the light. Icebergs, death and destruction are in the dark; engage in nothing that requires walls and screens. Touch not, taste not, handle not.

Capt. Smith's third was neglect. No lights to show the dangers, the unaided eye could not see. The ship was sinking and the captain, the crew, should have had head lights and the lookout telescopes. The standing instructions of the White Star line is to run no risk, that the safety of lives of passengers is the ruling principle. God has put in our hands ample instruction. His word is a lamp unto our feet and a light to our pathway. Are our young people instructed? Do we older ones read and hear? He shall see us and if we neglect so great a salvation? Capt. Smith's neglect cost him his life and the lives of more than 1,600 others. Millions and ourselves are concerned in our neglect. Who would not, if he could have saved that ship and passengers? But of purpose it went among the icebergs and it is in the depth of the sea.

Christ went over Jerusalem.

Kill Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that kildest the prophets and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not.

HORACE W. MOREMEN.

MOST ANCIENT OF MEN

RECENT DISCOVERIES IN ENGLAND ARE INTERESTING.

Flint Implements Made Before the Glacial Period of Europe Are Found by an Eminent Archaeologist in Suffolk.

The new discovery in regard to ancient man (of which I am able to speak with full confidence since I have studied the specimens and the localities myself, and have just sent an illustrated account of the implements to the Royal Society) is that of flint implements of very definite and peculiar shape, in some abundance, in a bed at the base of what geologists class as a Pliocene deposit (that is, before the Pleistocene), namely, the "Red Crag" of Suffolk. We owe this most important discovery entirely to Mr. J. Reid Moir of Ipswich, who found his first specimens in October, 1909, and after a year's careful examination of the district and the finding of more specimens in crag pits ten miles and more around Ipswich, announced it in a letter to the Times in October, 1910. Now that another year has passed more specimens have been found and the matter is beyond dispute.

Two distinguished geologists, past presidents of the Geological Society, have certified that the bed in which Mr. Moir's flints are obtained is certainly the undisturbed basement bed of the Red Crag, so that the flints may be justly spoken of as due to the work of pre-glacial man.

The implements are not at all like those previously known. They are flattened, almond-shaped, or kite-like (elongated, triangular or leaf-shaped), as are the large Paleolithic implements (the Chellean, Acheulian and Moustierian) hitherto known. But they are shaped like the beak of an eagle, compressed from side to side with a keel or ridge extending from the front point backward. Their shape may be compared to the hull of a boat with the keel turned upward and its beak-like prow in front. They are from four to ten inches in length, and all have been fabricated by a few well-directed blows given to an oblong piece of flint so as to knock off pieces right and left, leaving a keel in the middle, while the lower face is trimmed flat.

These implements are, in fact, beaked hammer heads—probably used in the hand without hatching—and applied to the smoothing and dressing of skins, as well as other purposes. Some are more symmetrical and carefully "trimmed" than others. With these, which I call "eagle's beak" implements, or the "rostricarnate type," are found a few other large and heavy, and some of them very curious shape (like picks and axes, unlike any hitherto known, but certainly and without the least doubt chipped into shape by man).

The flint implements—our eagle's beaks made by men in the relatively warm Coralline Crag days—were actually carried off the land by a sheet and deposited in the earliest layers of the Red Crag deposit. The irrefragable proof of this is that very nature of the eagle's beak flints, scratched and scored on their smooth surfaces by those peculiar cross-running grooves which we find on a pebble from a glacier's "moraine" or stone heap. Nothing but the immense pressure of the stones embedded in one sheet of ice, rasping by slow movement other stones embedded in another sheet of ice over which the first very slowly advances, can produce these markings.

The Red Crag marks the beginning of the Pleistocene and of the glacial condition of North Europe. A great question, difficult of decision, is whether the earliest river gravels which we know in England and France were as early as the Red Crag, or whether they are yet marred deposits of glacial sands and clays. In any case Mr. Moir's flint implements are pre-Crag; they were made before the glacial conditions set in, and are quite unlike those found in the river gravels. The discovery is one which will profoundly interest the "prehistorians" of France and Germany, as well as English archaeologists and geologists.—London Times.

Girls Talk Smoke.

Appropos of the Ritz-Carlton, New York's fashionable hotel that permits ladies to smoke, Miss Simone, the Parisian actress, said the other day: "Well, why shouldn't ladies smoke? There's nothing ungraceful in the habit. On the contrary, to see a pretty woman with a cigarette is a very charming picture."

"Those who object to smoking among women have never, perhaps, seen smoking done decorously. Their idea of smoking is that of the old Provencal woman."

"A society girl, calling on this old woman in her cottage, took a cigarette from her old nurse, fitted it in a tube of amber, and said: 'You don't mind if I smoke, do you?'"

"Why, of course not, dearie! Of course not!" said the old woman. 'Jeanne' she added to her servant, 'go fetch a spittoon!'"

On Second Thought.

"You know," said the Chinese philosopher, "that our nation really invented gunpowder."
"Yes," replied the court official, "and when I see the trouble we are having I can't help thinking it was rather foolish of us."

Guard Your Children Against Bowel Trouble

Many children at an early age become constipated, and frequently with disastrous results. Not being able to realize his own condition, a child's bowels should be constantly watched, and a gentle laxative given when necessary. Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are especially well adapted to women and children. The Sisters of Christian Charity, 531 Charles St., Luzerne, Pa., who attend many cases of sickness say of them:

"Some time ago we began using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, and we like them very much. Their action is excellent and we are grateful for having been made acquainted with them. We have had good results in every case and the Sisters are very much pleased."

The form and flavor of any medicine is very important, no matter who is to take it. The taste and appearance are especially important when children are concerned. All parents know how hard it is to give the average child "medicine," even though the taste is partially disguised. In using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, however, this difficulty is overcome. The shape of the tablets, their appearance and candy-like taste at once appeal to any child, with the result that they are taken without objection.

The rich-chocolate flavor and absence of other taste, make Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets the ideal remedy for children.

If the first box fails to benefit, the price is returned. Ask your druggist. A box of 25 doses costs only 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. MILES MEDICAL CO. Elkhart, Ind.

POPULAR COUPLE

Miss Louise Owings United In Marriage to Mr. Kenneth C. Charlton.

Mr. Kenneth C. Charlton, of Birmingham, Alabama, and Miss Louise Owings, daughter of Mr. L. C. Owings, were united in marriage last Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, "Cedar Croft," near Jeffersontown. Rev. H. N. Reubell performed the ceremony, using the Episcopal ring service in connection, with the lighting of the torch. The marriage took place on the lawn with the long level rays of the sun slanting through the trees. The Quinlet Club of the Girl's High School furnished the music, using Lohengrin's bridal chorus and Mendelssohn's wedding march. During the ceremony they played, "The Hour of Sunset," which was peculiarly appropriate in this instance. The bride wore a simple gown of emerald green, with a fillet of pearls in the hair. She carried a shower bouquet of Aaron Ward roses and cape jessamines. Her only attendants were little Miss Luthera Owings and Master Edwin Sproles, the flower bearers, who carried baskets of pink roses and orange blossoms. After the reception, a buffet luncheon was served to the guests. The bridal party was seated at a table decorated with roses and orange blossoms and lighted with candelabra and rose lamps. The favors were tiny suit cases filled with rice with place-cards in the form of express tags attached. Mr. and Mrs. Charlton left that night on a two month's wedding journey. After the first of August they will be at home at 807 South 30th Street, Birmingham, Alabama.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hoke, of Harrod's Creek, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Lou Hoke, to Mr. John S. Stoen, of Crestwood. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

The Jeffersontown Boy Scouts lost in a game of ball with the Temple Boy Scouts of Louisville last Saturday. The score was 24 to 8 but the home boys had had but little practice so far, owing to it being the busy season. Sweets pitched for the visitors and like his comrades did some very good work, but the Jeffersontown boys got in some good hits. Two of them getting in two-base hits and Ellingsworth, who was on first base, did his part to keep the opposition from scoring second. All the boys did well, considering the practice they have had and all enjoyed the game.

Reduce the Cost

BY USING THE BEST

Kurfees Paint

Is the best paint for painting houses, because it contains more White Lead than any paint in America and sufficient Zinc to harden the lead, prevent chalking and to insure permanent colors. It is made of

Pure White Lead 80%

Pure Zinc Oxide 20%

100% Pure Lead and Zinc

That's more White Lead than you will find in any other paints, and the outside white weighs 19 pounds to the gallon. A gallon of Kurfees covers more surface and costs it better because it contains more White Lead. It takes fewer gallons of Kurfees for the job. It's its use you not only get the best, but reduce the cost on every job. Call, phone or write us for color cards.

SAVES MONEY

From Burning Building Once, But Loses on Second Chance.

The two-story frame residence of Chas. Talbott on the Taylorsville Road near Dup's Point, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, entailing a loss of about $3,000. The fire broke out the second time and the Louisville Fire department was called, but the flames were beyond control when they arrived.

The first fire started on the second floor at 7 o'clock, but the flames were apparently extinguished after damage estimated at about $300 had been entailed. Several hours afterwards the blaze broke out afresh and the entire roof was ablaze before it was discovered.

Chas. Talbott suffered a sprain of his left wrist in rescuing $437 from his trunk at the first fire, only to lose it when the second fire destroyed the house. He ran to his room when the blaze was first discovered and in breaking open the trunk injured his wrist. He secured the money and carried it out with him but after the fire was believed to be out he replaced it in the trunk. When the second fire rekindled the flames prevented him entering his room. He succeeded in getting $150 belonging to his mother. But little of the household effects were saved.

Large Real Estate Deal.

One of the largest real estate deals in suburban property has just been made by Thomas B. Smith, through Norton Caldwell Company, of Louisville, to O'Leary & Figg Realty Company, of Shelbyville. This land is located about 9 miles East of Louisville on the Shelbyville turnpike and consists of about 262 acres of some of the very best land in Jefferson county, the price paid being $65,000. This property belonged to Mrs. Jas. Caldwell. The property was obtained by the O'Leary & Figg Company for the purpose of subdivision into lots, ranging from five to fifty acres. It is expected that a very attractive driveway and ornamental entrance will be constructed on the Shelbyville pike and will be made one of the most attractive residential home sites anywhere around the city.

He Has Been Absent.

The editor and family are away this week enjoying the festivities of the State Press Association meet at Olympian Springs, so we kindly ask the readers to look over our short coming as, if they have been seeing the good things in the daily papers of this meeting they will have to wait for their return and we will then in all probability have an experience meeting of what others missed.

THE "SAINTS"

Wholly Given to Fetes And Feasts.

Equity Meetings Growing in Interest—Residence Burned— All the Social News.

St. Matthews, June 10.—The "Saints" at the capital (?) are wholly given over this week to fetes and feasts; with an occasional entertainment to the local June brides. How time changes everything; even one's feelings of propriety. Years ago (when I was a girl) an engagement was kept a dead secret, often until the very day of marriage; now, it blazes before the world six months ahead. Frequent parties get out of the notion in the interval.

Mrs. Pierce Dodd will give a luncheon-bridge this week at her residence in Chenoweth avenue for her husband's niece, Miss Dodd, who is a June bride-to-be. More accurate information given later.

There will be a lawn fete at Mr. R. O. Dorsey's residence, Chenoweth avenue, Wednesday evening, at 8 p. m., for the Beargrass church fund. Ice cream and cake will be served in abundance. Come everybody.

There will be a lawn fete of exceptional value given at the Neuner residence on Friday evening, June 14, for the benefit of Crescent Hill Presbyterian church.

Equity meetings are growing in interest and importance; the majority of farmers having proved its beneficial influence over prices of crops. Those who were the most reluctant in joining are the most enthusiastic now.

Mr. Presley Ray's residence was completely destroyed by fire Sunday morning. Strenuous efforts accomplished saving all the household furniture except kitchen and dining-rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Ray were at home and have no idea how the fire originated.

Springdale Presbyterian Missionary Society will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m., with the Misses Nettie and Katie Stutenberger.

The stork has been very busy distributing the spring crop of infants. I will report names in next letter.

We are sorry to report the death of Mr. John Hunt, whose funeral was at Worthington church Saturday morning. He was so young and such a favorite we will miss him very much. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved family.
